Overview

With over 30 years of experience in education and training, Dr. Brandon Krueger, is excited to provide the best possible human resources, central office department systems/operations, inter-departmental relationship and leadership support to your district or organization. As a result of his experience, Brandon brings over 24 years of public education leadership/administration experience (from School Principal to Superintendent of Schools, with many years as a Human Resources Department executive administrator).

In addition, he has served, for more than 12 years, in university graduate programs as an adjunct professor/lecturer in Educational Theory and Practice, Educational Systems Leadership and Community Engagement, and as a Leadership Induction/Fieldwork Supervisor and Leadership Coach (for Superintendents, HR Executives and Principals). In addition to coaching/thought-partnering with school and district leaders and to working with groups and governance teams to find coherence in shared purpose/interests and communication protocols, Brandon has also successfully consulted/worked with district leaders to define, refine and implement results-based processes, especially in the HR functions of a district office.

Education

Brandon holds a BA in Interdisciplinary/Liberal Studies and an MS in Educational Leadership from National University, Sacramento, completed his graduate studies and Administrative Services Credential program at California State University, Sacramento and received his Doctorate of Educational Leadership from St. Mary's College of California, Moraga.
